What´s EcoProfit Novi Sad 2012?

EcoProfit is a program designed for the industrial sector as well as service companies. The goal is to save environmental related costs and reduce the environmental impact at the same time. The program has already been performed in many towns and regions all over Europe. In 2011 EcoProfit has been introduced in Novi Sad successfully for the first time in Serbia.

How does it work?

The first step consists in an initial review, which is a half- day analysis in the company focusing on the economic and ecological potentials for improvement. After the initial review 6 workshops with the participants of various companies are held in a period of 8 month. The companies get the know-how to use resources and raw materials more efficiently, to optimize production processes, to prevent waste, to meet the legal regulations efficiently, to get funding - and much more. The workshops, as a platform for the exchange of experience in environmental matters, offer an additional benefit for the companies.

Parallel to the workshops experienced EcoProfit consultants guide the companies to identify and realize concrete improvement measures. The EcoProfit-method is implemented in the companies step by step: Environmental data is collected and analyzed. Saving potentials are detected. Measures for improvement are planned, evaluated and realized.

EcoProfit Novi Sad include the following services:

- Initial review to check the economic and ecological potentials for improvement
- 6 full day workshops for 1-2 participants of each participating company
- Provision of workshop-material

- PR-activities for all participating companies
